DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114.

Election/Restrictions

Claims 1-10 are pending in the instant application. New claims 11-20 were added via Paper No. 15. Newly submitted claims 11-20 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reason. New claims 11-20 disclose electronically exchanging the commercial articles for at least one other article selected by the recipient. New claims 11-20 have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 11-20 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Drawings

This application has been filed with informal drawings, which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Figures 1 and 2 contain rough lines and text, which may affect clarity when reproduced.

Applicant is required to submit a formal correction of the noted defect. Applicant is required to submit drawing corrections promptly. Drawing objections may no longer be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 and 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being anticipated by Rom U.S. Patent No. 6,307,568 in view of Dodd U.S. Patent No. 6,321,211.

Referring to claims 1, 4, 5, 6, 9, and 10. Rom discloses a method and an arrangement for on-line viewing of an article on another structure (at least Abstract), comprising:

- Providing a host-site accessible to an on-line viewer (column 4, lines 30-44, "A garment-fitting system 14, for fitting garments over the Internet, receives a number of different inputs.") web-accessible at a separate site and web-linkable to at least one article-provider site (column 6, lines 24-32, "In step 1, the user sends a picture of the body of the user to the vendor of garments over the Internet.”) the article provider-site having images of articles for view via the web (Figure 1, Garment picture);

Art Unit: 3625

- Linking the on-line viewer to the host-site and selecting a structure in response to a command received by the on-line viewer (Figure 2 and Figure 3);
- Using the host-site, linking the viewer to the at least one article-provider site and passing images from that site for view by the on-line viewer (Figure 2 and Figure 3);
- A memory containing a new image of a merged item composed of merged representations of the different ones of the articles and the structure (Figure 3, step 4);
- At the host-site, electronically storing partial-data sets respectively corresponding to different ones of the articles (column 3, lines 62-65); and
- Generating a new image by merging representations of the different ones of the articles with the structure by forming an image of a merged item including representations of both the structure and the selected article (Figure 2, Figure 3 and column 2, lines 3-9).

Rose does not expressly disclose a method and an arrangement for on-line viewing of an article on another structure, comprising:

- Communicating the item electronically to another site for a selection, which causes a billing to another site; and
- Electronically gifting the merged item to another site (at least abstract).

Art Unit: 3625

Dodd discloses a method and an arrangement for on-line viewing of an article on another structure (at least Abstract), comprising:

- Communicating the item electronically to another site for a selection, which causes a billing to another site (at least column 3, lines 28-50 and column 9, lines 49-67); and
- Electronically gifting the merged item to another site (at least abstract).

The Examiner notes, the virtual storage closet in the instant application is functionally equivalent to the storing function described in Rom. Rom discloses a system where the user optionally selects or changes garment characteristics if available. Such characteristics could include but are not limited to the size of the garment, the color of the garment and the fabric of the garment (column 6, lines 62-65). This is equivalent to the immediate application's description of an electronic closet, which permits the shopper to change the size and color of an article (Page 9 of 14 of the Instant Invention).

Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have modified the system of Rom to have included the limitations of Dodd because garments can also be fitted for someone other than the user, which is a particular advantage when buying garments for persons who have difficulty selecting their own garments, such as children (column 2, lines 5-10).

Referring to claims 2 and 7. Rose in view of Dudd discloses a method and arrangement according to claims 1 and 6 as indicated. Rose further discloses a method wherein the partial data sets include a size code (Figure 1, Data about the user body).

Art Unit: 3625

Referring to claim 3. Rose in view of Dudd discloses a method and arrangement according to claim 1. Rose further discloses a method wherein the partial data sets include a code identifying a style (Figure 1, Data about garment).

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being anticipated by Rom U.S. Patent No. 6,307,568 in view of Dodd U.S. Patent No. 6,321,211, in further view of Official Notice.

Referring to claim 8. Rose in view of Dudd discloses an arrangement according to claim 6 as indicated supra. Rose in view of Dudd does not expressly disclose an arrangement configured and arranged to limit a maximum amount of storage space in the memory storage device provided for the on-line viewer. Examiner takes official notice that a memory storage device having a maximum limit to accessible storage space is an inherent component of a memory storage device, and does not substantially distinguish the claimed invention. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have modified the system of Rose and Dodd to have includes a maximum limit in order to enhance services and easy shopping for customers while increasing efficiency (Rose: at least column 1, line 65 to column 2, line 2).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
